FROM THE PRESIDENT

Just Begin

I was looking forward to my middle son's college graduation in May, which was truly a great moment for him. However, I received more than I expected from the occasion. The graduation speaker for the Music Department was a young woman who runs a nonprofit. She told a remarkable story of growing up as a musician, destined to perform with major orchestras her whole life. She and her family sacrificed a lot to make her dream a reality. In her twenties as a professional musician, she came to know an organization in Latin America that gives children the opportunity to learn a musical instrument, children who would never have the chance to do so otherwise. The program changes these children's lives and their futures.

The graduation speaker was so impacted by this program, that she decided to start the program in the United States, instead of continuing her career as a professional musician. She told of calling a former teacher in tears, realizing that she had spent her whole life preparing for one outcome, but now wanted a different one. Her teacher told her that, in fact, her whole life had been preparing her for this outcome - to bring her love of music to children who needed it. She went back to Latin America for guidance on starting the program. She expected to find processes and advice and manuals to follow. Instead, she received the following instruction. "Just begin. Begin now, from here, today. Just begin."

I haven't been able to get this story out of my mind in the four months that have passed. First, it is perhaps the best story to tell college graduates that I can imagine. But more than that, what an amazing directive. Just begin. How many times do we put off something, because it's not the right time? Or we're not ready. Or for another perfectly good reason. But in the end, what are we waiting for?

At Compass, this is the beginning. We selected our nonprofit clients three weeks ago. Our Project Leader and team member applications are open. We are moving ahead with orientations, trainings, info sessions, and all the activities that propel us so quickly through the fall.

Now we just need you. We need people to step up to lead these incredible projects that have been so carefully selected, and to work with the amazing 12 nonprofits doing so much good in our community. We need volunteers to staff the teams, to bring their time and talent to these causes. I know that re-entry is hard after summer. However, this is also the best time to think about how you want to spend the next few months. Helping a nonprofit that needs your skills and experience is a pretty good option. So while you may see the Compass recruiting email and think "maybe some time...maybe next year," my advice to you is to just begin. Read the project descriptions and find the ones that stir something in you.

There is so much need in our community right now, and you have so much to offer. You can make a difference. Whether music, healthcare, education or something else that speaks to you, Compass is here. This is your year. Just begin.

PROJECT LEADER APPLICATIONS DUE SEPTEMBER 18 at 5:00 p.m.

Compass is seeking MBA graduates from our Partner Business Schools to lead pro bono consulting projects for the amazing nonprofits listed below. If you want to have a personal impact on the broader community, Compass offers a substantive, intellectual experience addressing the unique challenges facing a particular nonprofit.

Project Leaders spend, on average, three to four hours per week on the Compass project. Project Leaders work closely with the nonprofit Executive Director and Board Chair, and manage a team of volunteer consultants to execute the work.

The Project Leader application is available here:

INVEST IN YOUR LOCAL COMMUNITY

Like our clients, Compass is a nonprofit that relies on contributions to ensure we can continue bringing talented business professionals to the nonprofit sector to help individual nonprofits.

Every $1 donated to Compass provides $9 of consulting services back to local nonprofits. Donations from individuals, companies, and foundations make it possible for Compass to bring business professionals into the local nonprofit sector each year. You can donate to Compass to support and expand our impact - and yours - by clicking the Donate Now button below.
