Although it's been a while since I've heard Theodore Roosevelt's "Man in the Arena" speech, I found it on my mind as I watched individuals and nonprofits step up during the pandemic. During the most challenging year and a half in my memory, I've seen the best in people through Compass' work with community-based nonprofits. These organizations turned on a dime to address increased needs last year, with many reinventing the way they deliver services. Nonprofit agility showed up again when I saw one of Compass' newly selected clients mentioned on my neighborhood list serve. Lutheran Social Services of the National Capital Area is organizing support for Afghan Allies arriving in the DC area who need food, housing, and more. How fortunate that Compass can support this organization and its work right now.

Compass is no stranger to rising in the face of crises. Having launched 20 years ago right after the devastating attacks on 9/11, we've worked with over 725 nonprofits across our three Compass cities since that time. Over 4,300 unique volunteers have engaged with Compass to thank nonprofits and to invest in their work. For 20 years, we've helped nonprofits thrive, and together have changed communities.

We've just announced 13 wonderful Chicago nonprofits selected to receive pro bono consulting services this year (see list below). Now we're seeking skilled business professionals to volunteer their expertise, time, and passion. By volunteering with Compass, you can help an organization with its strategy, sustainability, and operations. You can help nonprofits plan for the most efficient use of resources and evaluate the path for greatest impact.

The world is constantly changing around us. Compass is incredibly grateful to the nonprofits working and adapting on the front lines every day. In his famous speech of the day and ringing ever true today, Teddy Roosevelt said, "It is not the critic who counts; not the man who points out how the strong man stumbles, or where the doer of deeds could have done them better. The credit belongs to the man who is actually in the arena...who strives valiantly; who errs, who comes short again and again...but who does actually strive to do the deeds; who knows great enthusiasms...who spends himself in a worthy cause...who at the best knows in the end the triumph of high achievement, and who at the worst, if he fails, at least fails while daring greatly..."

I hope you'll consider volunteering to say thank you to nonprofits doing valiant work in our community during the most challenging of times. Join us and our amazing nonprofit clients in the arena. You'll love the difference you make.

Happy fall!

Suzanne
