Compass experienced a shining year in 2013-14, with new initiatives, staff, awards and even a new city. Our hallmark consulting program in Greater Washington reached new heights. Compass placed 341 business professionals on consulting teams for 53 Greater Washington nonprofits. Most of those teams focused on the foundational services we have always offered - Board Development, Funding Strategies and Strategic Alignment. Other teams continued our recent service line additions of Strategic Planning (2-year projects) and Strategic Partnerships & Collaborations. We also piloted two Marketing Strategy projects.

This year we piloted projects outside the Washington area for the first time. We were thrilled to run four pilot projects in Philadelphia. The United Way and Philadelphia Foundation stepped up to provide funding for our inaugural year. We recruited 36 volunteers for the four projects, which successfully concluded this summer. We found six amazing people to join our Board in Philadelphia, and heard from volunteers and nonprofits alike about the need for this service in the Philadelphia community.

Another highlight of the year was piloting our new On Board program, which places business professionals onto nonprofit boards. An overwhelming 79% of the nonprofits we invited applied for a board member. This reinforces what we hear regularly from our nonprofit clients – they need good board members but don’t always know how or where to find them. With On Board, we created a high-touch process that mirrors the success factors of our consulting program. With the help of our Greater Washington Advisory Board, we interviewed (in-person) the Executive Directors and Board Chairs of the applying nonprofits as well as all the board candidates who applied to be matched. In the end, we matched 12 people with eight nonprofits. By sending more than one person to each nonprofit, we expected the nonprofits to choose between the people we sent. We were incredibly pleased that many of the nonprofits made offers to all the people that we sent to them.

Compass board and staff join members of the Selection Committee of the CNA Board Leadership Award.

Compass was honored in January of 2014 to receive the Community Service Award from United Planning Organization (UPO). Later in the year, we received Honorable Mention (in the “Under $2 Million” category) for the Center for Nonprofit Advancement’s Board Leadership Award. These awards reflect the cumulative impact that Compass has made in the Greater Washington community. As a former client, UPO knows first-hand the difference that a Compass team can make for a nonprofit organization. At the same time, receiving the Center’s recognition showed that all the work we do behind the scenes really does count. We know that boards make a difference for nonprofits. We are honored to be seen as a model for board effectiveness. For us, it also shows that even small nonprofits can have strong boards.

Finally, the year that began with two staff members ended with five! We added a Deputy Executive Director for Greater Washington, an Executive Director in Philadelphia, and a Director of Development and Strategic Initiatives to support both locations (and yes, we have a few more ideas up our sleeves). All in all, this just proves what we always knew - a lot can happen in a year. We are extremely grateful to the people, organizations and companies that supported our work in 2013-14. Thank you for continuing to make our impact possible.

Warmest regards,

Cathy Bernasek

PHILADELPHIA PROJECTS

Volunteer Experience

As a new arrival to Philadelphia, I joined a Compass team as a Project Leader to connect with other professionals in the city. Over the course of the project, I made lasting friendships with my team members. Even after the conclusion of our work, we continue to meet socially and keep each other updated on our career paths. Mentoring relationships also formed between younger team members applying to business school and recent business school graduates. More recent graduates like myself gained new confidence in our skills thanks to the feedback from our more experienced team members.

Our client, the Women’s Center of Montgomery County, wanted help deciding whether to rebrand their organization to reflect their current programming focus on assisting victims of domestic violence. My team interviewed almost 20 individuals representing the Board, staff, volunteers, funders, and competitors; issued and analyzed a survey with responses from 90 stakeholders; and hosted a three-hour stakeholder workshop identifying and debating rebranding options. The Executive Director and the Board of Directors were extremely receptive to our recommendations and appreciative of our efforts. Their receptiveness and responsiveness made for a wonderful working relationship. My team became deeply invested in the success of our client over the course of the project, and we are in touch with our client to see how they are implementing our recommendations.

Booz Allen Hamilton Partnership

Over the years, Compass has benefited from tremendous support from Booz Allen Hamilton. Once again this year, Booz Allen supported Compass through corporate sponsorship and volunteer recruitment.

Booz Allen’s commitment to community service was reflected by the Booz Allen consultants who served nonprofits by participating on Compass’ Classic Projects, Micro Projects, and Community Leadership Projects. The talent, dedication, and hard work of Booz Allen volunteers helped generate invaluable strategic guidance for the nonprofit community.

On Board
Program

We are excited to announce the formal launch of the Compass On Board program to place business professionals onto local nonprofit boards. The On Board program builds on Compass’ experience of providing pro bono strategic consulting to local nonprofits, and it furthers our mission to inspire the active engagement of business professionals with their local nonprofits.

In this pilot year, we placed 12 candidates on the following eight nonprofit boards:

Bridges Public Charter School

Byte Back

Girls on the Run – DC*

Home Care Partners*

The Next Step PCS*

United Planning Organization

Washington Literacy Center*

Adventure Theatre MTC

* More than one On Board candidate placed on the nonprofit board of directors

 Candidate placed on board committee

We would like to thank the Board Matching Task Force for their extensive research and planning, and the Advisory Board members who supported the pilot through interviews with both Candidates and Nonprofits.
